ABOUT ME

I am a design student specializing in Business Service & Systems Design with an interest in understanding how people interact with services and systems in everyday life. My work focuses on identifying user needs, mapping experiences, and designing creative solutions that improve engagement and usability. I enjoy combining research insights with visual communication to create meaningful and thoughtful design outcomes.

MY MISSION

My goal as a designer is to explore how thoughtful design can improve everyday experiences and systems. I aim to work at the intersection of research, strategy, and creativity to design solutions that are both impactful and human-centered. I am particularly interested in service design, digital experiences, and communication design.
